THE TYPHOON.

A vory strong N.E. gale blew during Thursday night, and yesterday morning, though it force had somewhat decreased, there was still high wind and rough sea. The native craft did not venture from their shelters antil late in the day, but most of the steamers ling the 2nd Degree Examinations to deliver over reappeared in the harbour. So far as we can learn no serious damage has resulted. The Eastern portion of the town was well protected and did not receive the brunt of the attack. Along the Praya going West, however, there are some evidences of the force of the storm. The water broke in considerable volume over road and in many places earth has been washed away. An oil junk was capsized on principal mandarin, who without demur reim the occupants fortunately were rescued by Mr. replaced in his spartment and forthwith called was drowned. The ferry launches to Kowloon were able to resume the service yesterday morn.

The latter, disregarding the private character of the document, had sent it to the Colonial Office, which forthwith ordered an Executive Council inquiry into the charges as formulated in the Governor's original letter Major-General D'Agullar, as Lieutenant-Govergor, protested indignantly against the whole inquiry. . 'I'we members of the Council (Major Jaine and Mr. Johnston) gave evidence in support of the charges, but all the other wit nesses exenerated the Chief Justice. Nevertheless the Governor in Council pronounced his suspension from office. The moment this became known in town the whole British community (apart from the officials), called and left their cards at the Chief Justice's residence. Once more, as in the registration days, a unanimous ontery of indignation was raised against the Government. Three days later, the local solfcitors (v. D'E, Perker, B. Coley, W. Gaskell P. C. Mo wyney, and E. Farncombe) presented (November 25th, 1847) an address denouncing (November 30th, 1847) the community presented a sympathising address signed by 116 residents. and ou December 2nd; 1847, all the special jurors addressed the Chief Justice, expressing their respect for his character and their sympathy and temporary retirement. By this time the Governor had already sent in his resignation and the dispatch accepting, it (dated November 18th (847) was already on its way. The news of the Governor's resignation having been accepted served to blant the edge of popular excitement, and the Colonial Office, which considered the charges not proved, immediately removed the suspension and reinstated the Chief Justice, who soon after (March 2nd, 1848) resumed his duties."

The private misconduct charged against the Ohiof Justice, the details of which are not given by Dr. Eitel, was that diving out one evening the Chief Justice was supposed to have become affected by the wine he consumed.

> THE YOKOHAMA HARBOUR AUTHORITIES AND THE BREAKWATER.

The Yokohama authorities have had a ve unsatisfactory experience in the matter of breakwaters. In an article which appeared Transport on the 30th of December. I r ferred to the extraordinary action on the part of the Japanese in filling up the best part splendid auchorage ground at the port with stones, and the still more extraordinary fact English engineer. I commented upon the feelings of astonishment with which a visitor would behold this, and remarked that doubtless or enquiry he would be informed that these heaps of atones are to be capped with concrete and called breakwaters, but by whatever name they may be known he will see at once that the splendid anchorage formerly existing at Yekohama has been seriously curtailed by those expensive and useless stone heaps. I added, "more than one vessel has sustained damage from these so called breakwaters; the last being the American dagship, which remained on the stones for six or seven hours, and was only got off by assistance from some of the other war vessels lying in the bay." According to the latest advices I have received from Japan the authorities have decided to suspend all further operations upon these har bour works, and the brookwaters them elves absolutely rotten and crumbling. The master of the Sophic Sutherland thanks to the defective arrangement of the lightships, found his wessel on the top of the breakwater recently. She was got off without serious trouble, but a claim was made against him by the harbour authorities for $25 in consequence of his ship having smashed one of the blooks into small pieces and greatly damaged two others beyond repair. I here was barely a scratch on the Sophie Sutherland's copper. How can such a structure built of such material withstead the force of a hurricane? The Government of Indis regret that the suddenrise in exchange which took playestter the 26th of June, and the subsequent fall, should have caused so much loss and inconvenience to the mercantile public and they deeply sympathics electric lamps, in sulphuric soid stills, for wire inseparable from business. Greatly aggravated for dental use, and for chemistal orgoibles, by the uncertainty which prevails as to the future course of exchange, at the same time the Govern ment of India must point out that they gave no encouragement to the idea that as a result of the preliminary messures taken on the 26th of June a gold standard would be at once and effectively cetablished in India either at the ratio of 15d for the rapes, or at any other ratio." The words which I used on the 26th of June were as follows:-" It may be that a gold standard can be made effective from the first, or it may be that the making of a gold standard effective, and the establishment of it on a scoure basis, will involve a long and ardgens struggle, and necessitate heavy sacrifices. Time alone can show which view is correct." What has actually happenthat the ocean will reach Paris without artificial sed is that there was a large rise in exchange aid in somewhat less than 3,000 years. But each develops "after its kind." And the amazing fact is that in the wonderful and successive transformations of the human embryo "there is a visible, actual, physical representation of part of the life-history the world. Human ambryology is a condensed soolngy, a recapitulation and epitome of the main chapters in the natural history of the world." But how many are aware that it is just as true that these "cill-silts" are still represented in the human neck! Indeed, it is not only fairly common that children should be born with them externally visible, but sometimes they are even so open " that fluids taken in at the mouth could pass through them and trickle out at the neck. What explanation can any "Special Creation" theory give of these structures, which appear difficulty at all in them, but only illustration. The same remark amplies—not to dwell upon them unduly—to other structures equally plain before our eyes. Why and how have human embryos a distinct tail. in Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of latey ears been compelled to coin to express the numerous ob Peking jects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, Newchwang and in science generally, which the rapid advance Port Arthur of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are Tientsin here given in extenso. Each and every word in Take fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises | Chefoo for students of a most instructive nature. Both | Wei Hai Wei the Court and Punti pronunciations are given | Shanghai the accents being carefully marked on the best Chinkiang principle hitherto attained. The typography Nanking displays the success of an attempt to make the Wuhn Ohinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore character Tokyo terised Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work tho following fasts are submitted for consideration :-Chalmers Vocabulary, contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and apwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as Sarawak many as any other Dictionary hitheric pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with whichvery few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. And As stated above the construction of the Trans-Siberian Railway is important for trade in general, for Siberia abounds in all sorts of 27th Sept., and Amoy 28th had fresh N.E. winds, natural riches and this line will affect the trans-considerable sea, and cloudy throughout. sections of the whole world. This importance becomes specially, appreciable as regards the grain trade. The Americans, exploiting their vast prairies, have succeeded in flooding Europe with their agricultural products owing to the prodigious fertility of their soil. The soil of Siberis, in respect to fertility, is bibler than that of America and as the line will be finished in a short time—the period for donstruction is fixed at ten years, but, judgibes from the activity displayed, it will be finished before then the fields of Siberia will in a short time be placed under cultivation, and then Russia will be in a position to make her influence felt by her rivals in the agricultural markets.
